THIS MATTER comes before the court upon three discovery-

1 related motions: (1) plaintiff's motion to reconsider an order
2 striking and excluding expert witness testimony; (2) plaintiff's
3 motion to reconsider and/or clarify an order dated March 13, 2000; 4 (3) plaintiff's motion to extend time to take depositions of 5 overseas witnesses after the discovery cutoff. Having reviewed
6 the papers filed by the parties regarding these motions, the court
7 rules as follows:

8 1. Motion to Reconsider Order Striking and Excluding Expert
9 Testimony

10 Plaintiff contends that the court should reconsider its order
11 striking and excluding the expert testimony of Mr. Yerkerwich 12 because the court based its order on a misrepresentation by the 13 defendant. Motions for reconsideration will be denied absent a 14 showing of manifest error in the prior ruling or a showing of new 15 facts or legal authority which could not have been brought to the 16 court's attention earlier with reasonable diligence. Local Rule
17 W.D. Wash. 7(e)(1). Plaintiff has failed to make such a showing.

18 Plaintiff contends that a significant reason that it could 19 not make a proper disclosure of Mr. Yerkerwich's opinion was that 20 defendant had failed to produce records regarding sales outside of 21 the United States. This assertion is unconvincing. Defendant
22 objected to producing such documents in June of 1999, as it had 23 the right to do. Not until February 4, 2000 did plaintiff indi-
24 ciate that it disagreed with defendant's assessment. On February

Page - 2 -

1 14, 2000, with full knowledge that defendant objected to producing 2 these documents, plaintiff filed an opposition to defendant's
3 motion to strike expert testimony in which plaintiff did not name
4 the absence of these non-U.S. sales records as a specific reason
5 for its untimely and inadequate disclosure regarding Mr.
6 Yurkerwich. Plaintiff indicated that it was still reviewing the 7 documents produced, that certain documents appeared to be unre-
8 sponsive to requests, and that the precise reason for the untimely 9 disclosure of its expert was that "Mr. Yurkerwich's retention and 10 involvement had not been confirmed prior to that time because of 11 counsel's work load and Mr. Yurkerwich's schedule." (Pl.'s Resp.
12 Mot. to Strike, at 2.)

14 The court can only conclude from the record that plaintiff
15 either never reviewed defendant's objections, or did not recognize 16 the importance of non-domestic sales records until seven months 17 after defendant objected, or did not consider the absence of such 18 records to be a barrier to an adequate expert disclosure until 19 after the court excluded the expert. If such sales records were 20 essential to the expert's opinion, plaintiff should have brought a 21 motion to compel early enough to have still provided the expert
22 disclosure in a timely and complete manner.

23 The facts are uncontested. Plaintiff had months to review
24 the produced discovery materials and long ago had a clear indica-
25 tion from defendant of what had not been produced due to objec-

1 tions. Plaintiff disclosed its expert late and, even then, failed
2 to comply with Local Rule W.D. Wash. CR24(a)(2)(B) regarding the 3 substance of the expert disclosure. The court will not reconsider
4 its order to strike and exclude expert testimony. Plaintiff's 5 motion is, therefore, denied.

6 2. Motion for Reconsideration and/or Clarification of an Order

7 Dated March 13, 2000

8 On March 13, 2000, this court granted defendant's motion to 9 compel discovery. Plaintiff now seeks reconsideration, relief, or 10 clarification of that order. It states that full compliance with 11 this order would require copying and producing in excess of 12 1,200,000 pages of documents in response to one of the production
13 requests alone. It thus contends that it is impossible to produce 14 hard copies of all documents in the time specified in the order.
15 Furthermore, plaintiff requests clarification of who should bear
16 the costs of such production.

17 The court hereby clarifies that although the court found that 18 the burden of responding to the discovery was upon the plaintiff,
19 the costs of copying and delivering such documents was to be borne
20 in the traditional manner, i.e., by the requesting party. Fur-21 thermore, it is defendant's obligation to provide personnel to 22 make copies of the responsive material. The court suggests that 23 personal inspection by the defendant might lessen the amount of 24 copying that would be necessary. Aside from providing this clari-

1 fication, the court will not reconsider its order.

2 The court notes that the parties are expected to deal with 3 one another cooperatively to resolve any outstanding discovery
4 disputes. If it is physically impossible for plaintiff to produce 5 documents, the court expects the parties to meet, confer, and 6 arrive at mutually agreeable accommodations, especially regarding 7 issues related to the time, place, and manner of inspection that 8 may save both parties time, expense, and labor.

9 3. Motion to Extend Time to Take Depositions of Overseas Wit-
10 nesses

11 Plaintiff seeks to extend the discovery deadline so that it
12 may take the depositions of Mr. Shimada and Mr. Ozaki in Japan.
13 Defendant opposes this extension, contending that plaintiff's lack 14 of diligence is the only reason that such depositions did not take 15 place prior to the discovery deadline. Plaintiff failed to file a 16 reply to defendant's opposition brief on this issue.

17 The discovery deadline was March 13, 2000. Since June 1999,
18 when defendants responded to interrogatories, plaintiff has known
19 that testimony by Messrs. Shimada and Ozaki might be relevant.
20 Nevertheless, it was not until February 25, 2000, that plaintiff
21 served deposition notices for their testimony. Plaintiff was, 22 thereafter, unable to arrange for their deposition testimony to 23 take place prior to March 13, 2000, due to the requirement that 24 depositions taken in Japan for U.S. litigation purposes occur at 25
26 ORDER

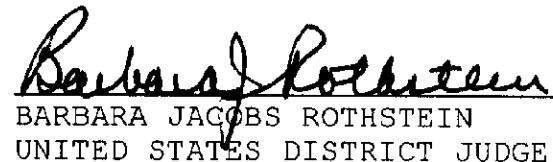

1 the United States Consulate or Embassy. Plaintiff then brought 2 this motion on March 8, 2000.

3 Plaintiff has shown no good cause why its motion should be 4 granted. Exercising reasonable diligence, plaintiff could have 5 taken deposition testimony from Messrs. Shimada and Ozaki long
6 before the discovery cutoff. Plaintiff's motion is, therefore,
7 denied.

8 4. Conclusion

9 Plaintiff's motion to reconsider an order striking and ex-
10 cluding expert witness testimony [docket 143-1] is DENIED; plain-
11 tiff's motion to reconsider and/or clarify an order dated March
12 13, 2000 [docket 158-1], is DENIED, except to the extent discussed 13 above; plaintiff's motion to extend time to take depositions of 14 overseas witnesses after the discovery cutoff [docket 137-1] is 15 DENIED.
